

Software testers needed

(no experience necessary)

The Mozilla Popcorn team is running a software testing/feedback session next week at our Toronto office, and we're looking for a few more people to try a beta version of our in-browser video remixing app.

WHEN / WHERE:

We'll be holding sessions on Wednesday, August 29 and Thursday, August 30 at the Mozilla Office (fifth floor, 366 Adelaide W) during business hours. Each session will be 30 minutes or less.

WHO WE'RE LOOKING FOR:

You'll be working with web video, so it would be great if you have an interest in video services on the web (like Youtube), but no technical or editing experience is necessary. If you've got creative ideas or you'd like to spend a few minutes trying something new, you'd be a perfect fit.

WHAT YOU'LL GET:

All participants will receive a $25 gift card for LCBO, Amazon or iTunes (your choice) as a token of our appreciation. We'll also give you an awesome Summer Code Party sticker.

If you're interested in participating or have any questions, get in touch with Kate by:

1. Email—kate@mozillafoundation.org
2. Twitter—@k88hudson

We have limited time slots/gift cards to give out, so don't wait!

We're looking forward to your feedback,

Kate Hudson
User Experience Design
Mozilla Popcorn Team